

Passing any federal law limiting the effect of the state telemarketing laws would be a mistake. Since Indiana passed the law limiting telemarketers my home has become my private residence again, not a place for telemarketers to harrass me and my husband via telephone. Now when the phone rings I know it is family or friends not the 6 to 12 telemarketer calls per evening we used to receive.